QUAKER MEETING HOUSE, 22 SCHOOL LANE, LIVERPOOL. L1 3BT

Cost: £70

“Counselling children and young people, due to their vulnerability and potential for issues of risk and child protection to arise, can place particular emotional demands on the counsellors working with them, and good supervision is an essential factor providing the necessary support for managing these.” Kirkbride, 2018

The workshop aims to explore some of these issues, such as supporting supervisees with questions regarding:

- children and young people’s risk taking behaviour and safeguarding
- children and young people’s developmental issues
- What does the BACP ethical framework say about supervision and also working with children and young people?

The workshop aims to offer an experiential space to explore these issues using case examples, creative media, skills practice and large group discussion.
